

HOW TO VOTE AT ELECTION ON TUESDAY

Judge For Supreme Bench--Delegates To National Republican Convention And City Officials.

BALLOTS FOR G. O. P. DELEGATES

Taft And La Follette List In The Field--Ruger For Judge Of Supreme Court--Vote For Mitchell Park.

Tomorrow is election day. While there is not much of importance to be considered on the local political tickets, no contest except in the second ward, the question of voting for the purchase of the Mitchell property on West Milwaukee street is paramount in the city. To be sure that a vote is recorded for this the voter must cast his ballot for yes, on the voting machine. It is a matter worthy of the most careful consideration and one which the citizens generally can not fail to neglect. The cost to the taxpayers would be one per cent per year per one hundred dollars and it is well worth considering.

The question of the judicial contest is between three men--William Ruger of Janesville, Robert M. Dushford and John Barnes. Of the three men Ruger will give Mr. Taft a rousing vote. His name appears on the voting machine under the caption independent nominations, in voting for Mr. Ruger the citizens of Janesville and of Rock county will cast a ballot in favor of a man who has done much to merit his selection as a judge of the Wisconsin supreme court.

The next question of importance is that of selection of delegates to the National republican convention. There are eight names to be found on the tickets--four favoring Taft and four favoring La Follette. The law says that only four shall be voted for. Should the voters favor Mr. Taft his ticket will be marked as follows:

DELEGATES AT LARGE.
William Brumder (T)	X
Henry A. Cooper (L)
John M. Estes (T)	X
Hiram O. Fairchild (T)	X
Adolph E. Homstad (T)	X

ANNUAL TOURNAMENT FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Amateur Court Tennis Championships Open Today at Racquet and Tennis Club.

New York, April 6.--Interest of lovers of tennis is now centered in the annual tournament for the amateur court tennis championship of America, which opened today at the Racquet and Tennis club in this city and will continue through the greater part of the week. The tournament is exciting more than ordinary interest because of the fact that it is the first time since 1896 that the holder of the title is Jay Gould. Several months ago Gould announced that because of his college work he would be unable to defend the title which he wrested from Miles a year ago, but subsequently he changed his mind. In coming here it is believed that the Englishman is prompted more by a desire to turn the tables on Gould than by any special longing to regain the title, which he has held on so many occasions.

TWO CANDIDATES IN PRESIDENTIAL FIGHT

Taft and Bryan Are In Omaha and Denver Today Greeting Their Friends.

Omaha, Neb., April 6.--Secretary Taft arrived at Omaha at 8:30 and the secretary held an informal reception on the station platform. Bryan at Denver. Denver, Colo., April 6.--Accompanied from Colorado Springs by the reception committee, William J. Bryan arrived in Denver this morning.

NEW ENGLAND MILLS MAKE CUT IN WAGES

Ten Per Cent Reduction Goes Into Effect--All New England Mills Affected.

Boston, Mass., April 6.--A wage reduction of 10 per cent went into effect this morning in practically all of the cotton mills in the New England territory. Lowell, New Bedford, Fall River, Manchester and the Rhode Island mill towns are the places chiefly affected. Approximately 20,000 operatives are affected in Rhode Island alone. The mills decided upon the reduction only after they had tried all other plans for bettering the general conditions in the trade, such as curtailing the output, etc. What the duration of the cut is to be, of course, purely problematical, as no one can say when the conditions will improve sufficient to justify the operators in restoring wages to the old figure. At present there is no demand for the product of the mills and conditions have steadily grown worse until the prices that were quoted by buyers were down to the cost of manufacture.

LATTER DAY SAINTS IN ANNUAL SESSION

Annual Conference of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints Began Today.

Independence, Mo., April 6.--The annual general conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints began this morning in the church here. The Reorganized church, commonly called the Josephites, are distinct from the adherents of the Utah church, and there is very little affiliation in a religious way between the two bodies. The conference was opened by President Joseph Smith, who, with his son, Frederick M. Smith, and L. C. Evans of London, Ontario, composed the first presidency, and are the presiding officers of the conference. The morning was devoted to opening ceremonies and a sermon at 11 o'clock, and the first business meeting was held this afternoon. The committee on credentials reported delegates from Maine to California, and from Hawaii, Australia and other countries, this being the general conference of the church of the world. The conference will be in session for about two weeks, and will dispose of a large amount of routine business. The business is always transacted at the afternoon sessions, the morning and evening sessions being devoted to religious services, with sermons from two leading men each day. The three composing the first presidency and the quorum of twelve occupy the pulpit of the church.

ALABAMA BAPTISTS GATHERING IN TROY

B. Y. P. U. of Alabama Gathers for Fifteenth Annual Convention.

Troy, Ala., April 6.--The Baptists are in possession of Troy today. Scores of them arrived last night and this morning to attend the fifteenth annual convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of Alabama. The visitors come from every section of the state and they were much in evidence today about the railway stations, hotels and boardinghouses and other public places. A monster welcome demonstration this evening in the First Baptist church is to mark the formal opening of the convention. The regular program will be taken up tomorrow morning and the proceedings will continue until Thursday. The program is filled with many attractive features. Thomas J. Wingfield of Birmingham will preside and the prominent speakers from abroad will include Dr. T. B. Ray, educational secretary of the Foreign Mission board; Dr. George T. Webb of Chicago, general secretary of the B. Y. P. U. of America; and Prof. L. P. Leavell, specialist of the Southern Baptist convention.

TENEMENT HOUSES FALL IN OXFORD

Eight Dead And Twenty Injured Taken From Ruins--Caused By Poor Foundation.

London, April 6.--Two old tenement houses in Castle street, Oxford collapsed early today as a result of the weakening of the foundations. Forty people mostly German waiters were caught in the debris. Eight dead and twenty injured have been removed from the ruins.

DRAWING TEACHERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

Western Drawing and Manual Training Association Opens in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.--Indianapolis is preparing to entertain during the next three or four days the members of the Western Drawing and Manual Training association, whose annual convention will be opened tomorrow. The territory of the association extends from Ohio to California. Many prominent instructors from the east, however, will attend the convention. Prominent among those who are to address the convention are President William O. Thompson of Ohio State university, President Bryan of Indiana university, Walter Scott Perry of Pratt Institute, Arthur W. Dow of the art department of Teachers' college, Columbus, Ohio, and Frederick Burnham, state instructor of art of Massachusetts.

NEW YORK TO HAVE AN AUTO CARNIVAL

Ten Years Ago There Were Only a Dozen Autos in New York.

New York, April 6.--Ten years ago there were hardly more than a dozen automobiles in operation in New York city. Today there are twenty-two thousand, and their value is placed at over $15,000,000. To celebrate this remarkable growth the New York Automobile Trade association has arranged for a monster carnival and pageant, which formally opened today and will continue until Saturday night. Arrangements for the affair have been made on a most elaborate scale. The chief events will be the parade tomorrow evening and the hill climb next Thursday. Several hundred entries have been received for the parade and there will be a large representation of all makes of cars. One division of the parade will include a cylinder 6-horsepower Packard that was imported in 1908. Another car will be the 60-horsepower Mercedes, which won the touring section of the Paris-Madrid race in 1903. In celebration of the carnival the Broadway "automobile district" has been cordoned off and at night will be brilliantly illuminated with thousands of lights. That interest in the event is not confined to the local trade is evidenced by the arrival of numerous visitors from outside the city.

IMPORTANT SUIT IS IN SUPREME COURT

Case Against Waters-Pierce Oil Company Comes on in U. S. Supreme Court.

Washington, D. C., April 6.--The United States supreme court reconvened today after a two weeks' recess. The docket of the court is crowded with important cases. Foremost among those scheduled for an early hearing is the case of Bradley W. Palmer versus the State of Texas, involving the right of the Waters-Pierce oil company to do business in Texas. This is the case in which the company was fined $1,000,000 on the charge of violating the Texas anti-trust laws, and in which receivers were appointed by both the state and federal courts.

VAN HISE MAKES A DECIDED STATEMENT

Returns to Madison and Explains His Ideas on Coeducation as He Gave It Out in East.

Madison, Wis., April 6.--"I have been in favor of coeducation ever since I have been connected with college work, for I believe that, on the whole, coeducation gives better results, both for men and women, than training in separate classes or institutions," said President Van Hise this morning, upon his return from New York. "In my recent address before the Association of Collegiate Alumnae in Boston I thought that I had made my position on the subject sufficiently plain when I said 'Believing as I do that the adoption of coeducation in the west, which has led to the higher education of tens of thousands of women who would otherwise have had no other opportunity to obtain a collegiate training, has been of immense importance to the nation; believing as I do that coeducation gives satisfactory scholastic results for both sexes, I am in favor of taking such steps as are necessary to maintain coeducation in full vigor in the colleges of liberal arts.' In fact, I have never expressed myself on any occasion as opposed to coeducation." "In the address just referred to," continued President Van Hise, "I pointed out that with the increase in the number of women in the colleges of liberal arts of coeducational institutions, certain courses, such as languages and literature, have become popular with women so that they greatly outnumber the men. As soon as this situation obtains, there is a tendency for men not to elect these courses, even though otherwise attractive to them. Similarly there are other courses, such as political economy, for example, which are naturally taken by a large number of men, perhaps with reference to their future career, and there is a tendency for women not to elect these courses because of the overwhelming predominance of men. That this separation is peculiar to coeducation is shown by the fact that in men's colleges languages and literature are popular subjects, while in women's colleges courses are successfully given in political economy and similar subjects. "If the actual opportunities of women will be enlarged by offering for them classes in political economy and other subjects which otherwise they would not pursue, these subjects because of the number of men in the classes, I suggested in my address the possibility of having separate divisions for women in these subjects. If the opportunities for men will be enlarged by offering classes for them in languages and literature when otherwise they would not take such courses because of the large number of women in the classes, it seemed to me that the desirability of providing such separate divisions was worth consideration. Even if these separate divisions of classes in some subjects are provided, other divisions of the same classes would still be maintained open alike to men and women. "In view of these considerations, the faculty of the college of letters and science has appointed a committee including the chairman of the department most directly affected, to consider whether any steps should be taken to increase the general efficiency of coeducation. As the committee has not recently been appointed, it has not had an opportunity to investigate the subject. When the committee has considered the question and reports its conclusions, there will be ample opportunity to discuss the matter. Meanwhile there is no reason why the friends of coeducation should be alarmed, for no proposition leading to general segregation has been proposed or is being considered. I do not know of any member of the university faculty who is opposed to the present system of coeducation which gives to men and women alike the fullest opportunity to obtain higher education at the state university."

HOUSE PASSES AN EMPLOYERS' MEASURE

Sterling Employers' Bill Goes Through This Afternoon Without Opposition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., April 6.--The house today unanimously passed the Sterling employers' liability bill. The senate judiciary committee today agreed upon a bill dealing with the shipments of liquors from one state or territory to another. The measure provides there shall be no "collect on delivery" packages of liquor shipped in interstate commerce, when fictitious names are used, and that the name of consignee or consignee shall be stated plainly. The provision is designed to eliminate the practice of railroad and express agents acting as agents for liquor houses. In the decision case of Longyear vs. Toolan and McMillan against Longyear the supreme court of the United States today upheld the Michigan law authorizing a sale of property to pay delinquent taxes. "The President today sent to the senate the name of John B. Loech of Illinois to be public printer. The marine hospital and public health office today issued an order establishing a quarantine beginning today against Cuba with the exception of a metropolitan district of Havana."

MUCH INTEREST IN CHICAGO ELECTION

Agitation for Sunday Closing Is Cause of Amount of Interest Taken.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, April 6.--One of the most interesting municipal campaigns in the history of Chicago came to a close today. Though the election tomorrow is only for members of the board of aldermen, the contest has excited as lively an interest among the voters as in years when a mayor and other city officials have been elected. Five tickets are in the field, which means that one hundred and seventy-five candidates are contesting for the 35 positions to be filled. The agitation for Sunday closing of saloons and other measures of reform is chiefly responsible for the extraordinary interest manifested in the election. It is believed that a better condition of things can be brought about only by sending better men to the council chamber and as a consequence the reform element is working with might and main for the election of men with clean records, while the professional politicians and others whose interests are opposed to reform are working equally hard to return representatives of their choice. The republicans and democrats are practically agreed upon their respective platforms. There is no issue except personal choice between them. The prohibitionists seek to get in political control so they can close the saloons, while the Independent League proposes a number of socialist reforms. The strongest plan of the Independent League to the voters is to emancipate themselves from professional politicians. The socialists purpose to establish municipal ownership of public utilities, the expenditure of taxes to furnish employment to the unemployed, industrial schools and a general reform of the entire municipality. It is conceded that the republicans or democrats will elect nearly if not quite all of the aldermen, although recent agitation has introduced an element of doubt as to the ability of their candidates to defeat the socialists in wards inhabited principally by workmen.

SHOT AFFINITY AS A FITTING CLIMAX

To His Infatuation for the Young Woman To-day.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Pittsburgh, Pa., April 6.--Samuel L. Gardner, aged 39, a civil engineer and prominent citizen of McKees Rock, a suburb of the city, shot and instantly killed Dorothy Bradley, aged 16, and then shot and killed himself. Gardner had a wife and several grown-up children. It is alleged Gardner has been infatuated with the young girl for a long time.

ANTI-SALOON MOVE HAS A PROCESSION

Four Thousand Women and Children March in Line to Impress Voters.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Bloomington, Ill., April 6.--Four thousand women and children having flags and banners, paraded the streets of Bloomington today in an attempt to drive out the saloons at the polls at tomorrow's election.

AHEAD OF TIME THAT WAS ORIGINALLY ARRANGED

Six Torpedo Boats Reach Magdalena Bay Ahead of Their Scheduled Time.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Magdalena Bay, April 6.--Six torpedo boats arrived at sundown yesterday, one day ahead of the scheduled time. The Arcthus has not yet arrived. South Atlantic League Charleston, S. C., April 6.--The South Atlantic baseball league opened its season today with Macon, playing at Augusta, Savannah at Jacksonville and Columbia at Charleston. The weaker clubs have been strengthened since last year and all indications point to a close and interesting race for the pennant. The schedule provides for 120 games, the season to close August 22. Buy it in Janesville.

PROMOTERS OF THE INTERURBAN LEAGUE

Met at Beloit Yesterday and Appointed a Committee to Ask Concessions of Tracton Lines.

Aurora, Elgin, Rockford, Janesville, and Beloit were represented at a meeting held in the Lake City hotel yesterday to discuss the formation of an interurban league. The formation of an interurban league was not represented but if the plans go through either that city or Beloit will have a team. A committee was appointed to confer with the management of the interurban lines regarding some concessions upon the granting or refusal of which the promoters of the league will base their future action. It is expected that this conference will take place some time during the present week. Aurora and Elgin have already booked games with several semi-professional teams from Chicago and the schedule will have to be made up so as to avoid conflict with the Wisconsin league games in Rockford and Freeport. The fate of the project will therefore have to be determined within the next few days. Thomas Abbott and Patrick Garvin represented Janesville's interests at the session yesterday.

Janesville Red Sox
The Janesville Red Sox are organizing for the 1908 season and have elected John Hall manager and Paul Holtz treasurer. Hall will catch, Gus Schmidt and Tom Butters will pitch. Holtz will hold down first base, Kerl will play at third, Hill will be shortstop, and Will Huerger is to hold down the center garden.

OBITUARY.

Thomas Rice.
Word has been received of the death of Thomas Rice, for many years a loved and respected resident of Johnstown, at Delavan on Saturday last. The remains will be brought to Johnstown for burial, the funeral being held Tuesday afternoon at the North Johnstown church. Mr. Rice's wife died seven years ago and since that time he has made his home with his different sons, five of whom are left to mourn his loss. Doll of Milton, Frank of Johnstown, Dr. C. A. Rice of Whitewater, Dr. F. A. Rice of Delavan and H. H. of Delavan. Mr. Rice was seventy-seven years of age and his many friends throughout the county will be grieved to hear of his death.

Mrs. Anton Prox.
Mrs. Anton Prox died at the home of her son, Joseph Prox, of 353 Linn street at ten o'clock Sunday morning. Mrs. Prox was 76 years old at the time of her death and leaves to mourn her loss a husband and two sons. The sons are Joseph of Janesville and John of Rockford. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church. Mr. and Mrs. John Prox are in town to attend the funeral.

Infant Son.
The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Koning died Sunday morning at four o'clock at the home of his parents at 31 South Main street. The burial took place at Lake Geneva today, the remains being taken to Lake Delavan at the St. Paul road at 7:10.

Infant Child.
The eight-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zastoupel died yesterday afternoon at two o'clock after a short illness. The funeral was held early this morning.

Mrs. Mary Dalton.
Mrs. Mary Dalton died this morning at 8:30 at the home of her cousin, Thomas Dalton at 264 West Milwaukee street.

Mrs. Dalton was an old resident of Monroe having lived there for fifty years and more recently in this city. She leaves four children to mourn her. They are, Mrs. Thorpe of Prairie du Sac, Mrs. G. C. Hoyt of Chicago, John Dalton of Janesville, and Morris of Sioux City, Ia.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church. The remains will be taken to Monroe for interment on the 10:40 St. Paul train.

LITIGATION IN SEVERAL COURTS

Henry Helen, Night Watchman at Sugar Factory, is Defendant in a Divorce Action.

Attorney Fisher & Costello are counsel for Henry Helen in divorce action brought by his wife on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment and desertion which is being tried before Judge Grimm at Jefferson today. The defendant has been night watchman for the Rock County Sugar Co. since the factory opened here and came to Janesville from Watertown. Atty. Henry Killian of Milwaukee represents the plaintiff.

Barometer Brings Suit.

Before Judge Pfield in municipal court this morning testimony was taken in the action of George Sherman vs. Henry Nelson. The plaintiff was bartender in the defendant's place of business between Nov. 1, 1907, and March 1, 1908, and claims that Nelson agreed to pay him $12 a week, amounting to $168, but that he received only $112 in all. He demands judgment for the balance of $56. The defendant claims that the plaintiff accepted $10 on Feb. 22 as full payment of the balance due. Atty. W. G. Wheeler was counsel for Sherman and Atty. Ralph Adair represented Nelson. A decision will be given on Wednesday.

In Justice Court.

In Judge Tallman's court this afternoon a civil action brought by Frank Banek against George Bogardus is on trial.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"The queerest stunt I know of," says the Philosopher of Folly, "is telling secrets. You expect somebody else to keep still about your self."

Slow Growth of Love.

Love does not grow great and become perfect all at once, but requires time and the nourishment of thoughts.

HEAVY TAX PAYER ARGUES A VOTE, YES

Allen P. Loveley Advises Voters to Favor the Mitchell Park Purchase at City Polls.

Any proposition that will add to the expenses of the city of Janesville and increase the rate of taxation should be examined with great care before being approved, as a large tax rate is a heavy handicap to the growth and development of the city. On this general principle there has arisen some opposition to the proposed purchase of the Mitchell property for park purposes, which question will be voted upon tomorrow.

At first thought the incurring of a $15,000 obligation looks to be an unwise thing on account of the increase in taxes, but a little figuring will show that it is not such a heavy obligation as many people suppose. The assessed valuation of Janesville is nearly $10,000,000. If this property be bought and payment be extended, as has been proposed, over a period of fifteen years by a bond issue at current rates, it will mean an average annual outlay of less than $400,000, which equals an increase in the tax rate of .014 of 1 per cent. In other words, the owner of property assessed at one thousand dollars will pay an increased tax of 14 cents per year for fifteen years. Surely, it's a pretty dead citizen who can't get value received out of this property at that rate.

But will the purchase of this property actually increase the tax rate? There are two ways of reducing taxes, (1) By reducing expenditures, which means a municipal self-denial of some improvement or activity which we are now enjoying. This kind of reduction is often talked of but seldom practiced; because we do not wish cheaper schools, fewer sewers, poorer streets, fewer police, or inefficient fire service. (2) The other way to reduce the tax rate is by increasing property values, which, without raising the rate, increases the city's revenue. Such increase is brought about by public improvement. The proposed Mitchell park will be both an attractive advertisement for the city and a marked improvement to our main street and should, therefore, indirectly result in higher values for property in the city. Thus, instead of being an expense, the proposed park will actually be an asset.

For these reasons, it seems that the taxpayer as well as the non-taxpayer should vote "Yes" to the question at the top of the ballot tomorrow.

ALLEN P. LOVELEY.

ALDERMEN VIOLATE THEIR ORDINANCE

Have Been Observed Expecting on Floor of City Council Chamber.

Fond du Lac, Wis., April 6.—After passing an ordinance prohibiting expecting on sidewalks and in public places some of the aldermen have been caught violating this city law. The chief of police has been instructed to post notices in the council chamber to the effect that the city laws have been prohibited from smoking and spitting on the floor. Cigarettes and sawdust boxes will be provided and put out will be tolerated as long as the expectorates are in line, but smoking never. It is not known who is back of the order to enforce this ordinance, but who once says the chief of police who attends the council meetings might have arrested a number of the violators, but he has confined his duties to filling the water picher on the press table and arguing spring shooting with City Clerk L. A. Pettibone in the small room adjoining the city chamber.

Wise Old Noah.

A Sunday school teacher in Bryn Mawr was questioning her class about some prominent men of the old Testament. "Now, Henry, can you tell me who was the wisest man in the Bible?" she asked.

"Noah!" Henry answered promptly.

"Oh, no, Henry," the teacher said, "you don't mean Noah; you mean Solomon, don't you?"

"No, ma'am; I mean Noah."

"What makes you think that Noah was the wisest man?"

"Well," said Henry, "my papa says a man like Solomon, with 600 wives and 800 porcupines, is a blamed old fool, while Noah knew enough to get in out of the wet when it began to rain."

Evolution of the Squaw.

The fair visitor stopped in front of Chief Umbrella's tent.

"And are you a real Indian?" ventured the visitor, timidly.

"Um, yes," grunted Chief Umbrella, as he puffed his long pipe.

"Well—er—is it true that the red man makes the squaw do all the work?"

"Um, no. Used to, lady. Now squaw come from college, wear feathers instead of husband and make husband do all work and mind papoose. Education had thing for poor red man, lady."

Overashes for Horses.

In large cities like Chicago and New York city asphalt pavements cause the death of hundreds of horses every winter. Many styles and shapes of shoes are now being introduced in an endeavor to stop accidents, one of the most promising of which consists of a chain tread, which can be quickly buckled on and as quickly taken off the foot of a horse without the use of tools. It is practically self-adjusting, is strong, cheap and durable.

May Refuse to Drink.

There is a movement among some of the graduates of the German universities to abolish compulsory drinking by members of the student corps. At present no one is admitted to these societies if he be an abstainer, and when students are initiated they are required to drink almost to the intoxication point.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW.

Tommo—Mamma, when a boy is away from home and wants to get back awfully bad—that is being homesick, ain't it?

Mamma—Yes, dear.

Tommo—Well, when he's sick of staying at home and wants to go skating, what do you call it?

THE DRINK AGAIN.

Jones—I'm glad I've met you, doctor. Can you give me anything for a bad headache?

Doctor—Have you had bad headaches before?

Jones—No; always after.

HER LEAP YEAR PROPOSAL.

Miss Sweet—I have just proposed marriage to your son, Mr. De Goldbug, and been accepted.

Mr. De Goldbug (sternly)—Can you support him in the style he has been accustomed to?

THE ONLY WAY.

Brown—Johnson is the wealthiest man in town, and he made it all by writing poetry.

Green—Impossible!

Brown—It's so. A rich widow who doted on poetry became infatuated with the stuff he wrote, and married him.

STEAM-SCHOONER IS UNIQUE.

Vessel of the Pacific Adapted to Carry Heavy Loads.

The steam-schooner, a vessel whose build and habits are peculiar to the Pacific, writes Mr. Ralph D. Paine in "The Greater America," often goes to sea "with her load-line over her hatch," which means that after her hold has been crammed with cargo, a deck-load of lumber is piled half-way up the masts, so that her skipper puts out with the water washing over the main deck.

Along the harbor front of Seattle runs the story of a passenger who loaded down to the wharf in a hurry to get aboard a departing steam schooner. He balanced himself on the string-pleen for an instant, looked down at what little he could see of the laden craft, and gave his gripknack down the only opening in sight. He was about to dive after it when a longer on the wharf shouted:

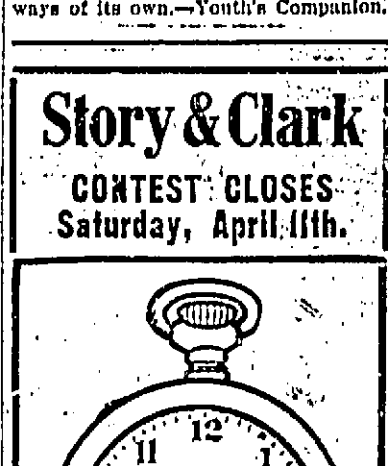

"Hi, there! Where do you think you're jumpin' to? That's the smoke-stuck you tossed your baggage down."

"What!" gasped the passenger. "I thought it was the hatch."

The story has a slight flavor of exaggeration, but it may serve to hint that the commerce of the Pacific has ways of its own. — Youth's Companion.

Layout shows Senator Simon Guggenheim of Colorado, Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, Senator John Keane of New Jersey, Congressman William D. Delaware, Congressman William D. McKinley of Illinois, Congressman George E. Huff of Pennsylvania and Congressman Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—There are thirty-two millionaires in the United States senate and fourteen in the house of representatives. In the senate every third man has a fortune of seven figures. In the house every 27th man is reckoned as a millionaire or more. This is an interesting commentary in view of the repeated statements that the senate is a "rich man's club" and the house a "poor man's club."

But when the senate is called the "rich man's club" it is usually in a disparaging sense and with the implication that millionaires cannot become good law-makers. This is unfair and incorrect. Some of the best brains in congress travel in the senate body with a full pocketbook. On the contrary some of these senators who are most notoriously indolent are the rich boys of the hereditary golden spoon. As is usually the case the men who have made their own way are the hardest workers.

The thirty-two reputed millionaires of the senate aggregate a wealth of $210,500,000. The reputed twenty-seven millionaires in the house aggregate a wealth of $83,000,000. These figures take no cognizance of the many near millionaires of which there are a host. For instance, Vice-President Fairbanks is often referred to as a millionaire, but Washington newspaper men credit him with a fortune of between $300,000 and $750,000. This has been discussed as of millionaires who have the coin to the knowledge of all.

The richest statesman of the law is Simon Guggenheim of Colorado, whose fortune is placed at $50,000,000, representing a brother's portion of the immense riches of the smelter trust. The Guggenheims, father and son, practically control the smelting business. It is a business in which large money is made and made fast, and it would be hard for the Guggenheims to say what they are worth. Popular estimates of Senator Guggenheim's fortune run from $20,000,000 to $100,000,000. The most generally accepted estimate is $50,000,000.

The second richest senator is Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, who has just entered the upper house, succeeding John W. Spooner. Stephenson's fortune of $30,000,000 has been largely from lumber. His vast holdings in value by himself. Shylock never sold earn gold as Stephenson's forest investments have earned money for him today.

The third richest upper house statesman is the venerable Senator Elkins of West Virginia, whose fortune is figured at $25,000,000. The Elkins wealth has been dug from mines, railroads, farms and banks. He married a daughter of Henry Cassaway Davis, who was the candidate for vice-president on the ticket with Judge Parker, and that helped some, as Davis himself was a man of countless millions. Davis and Elkins have a hand in about everything in West Virginia from which money comes.

The fourth richest man in the senate is Nelson W. Aldrich. He is rich and glad of it, and friendly to those who are similarly embarrassed. Aldrich is said by some to be the greatest power in the upper house. His nearest competitor in the road to wealth is John Keane of New Jersey, whose fortune is placed at $10,000,000. Keane is a bachelor and clubman and inherited the major portion of his wealth. Just below him in the line was the late Redfield Proctor of Vermont, whose fortune is inventoried at $8,000,000. He made his money in granite and that is about all there is to tell. He had been in the senate sixteen years. He was secretary of war for President Harrison.

The richest of the house millionaires is John E. Andrus of New York. He is the largest manufacturer of paper in the United States and the bulk of it goes into chewing gum. His $35,000,000 have accumulated principally from popular nickels invested in chewing gum. Next to Andrus the richest congressman is William D. McKinley of Ohio, who is the most lavish entertainer and most popular speaker in the national capital. McKinley is rated with a fortune of $15,000,000, representing street railway holdings in his native state of Ohio. He is the largest electric traction magnate in the middle west.

The third richest congressman is George F. Huff of Pennsylvania. Mr. Huff is president of the Keystone Coal and Coke Co., one of the largest producers of gas and steam coal in the United States. He was elected to the 54th congress and has succeeded himself ever since.

The fourth richest congressman is Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. He is a lawyer by profession, and is credited with a fortune of $5,000,000. His wife was formerly Miss Florence Pullman of Chicago. Some of the other big millionaires in the upper house are Henry A. DuPont of Delaware, who has $7,000,000, made from powder. Francis G. Newland of Nevada is the richest democrat in congress. He has $6,000,000, largely invested in mines and property. He owns more real estate in Washington than any other senator. Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., of Oregon has $6,000,000, and he is willing to spend some of it to see

President Roosevelt nominated for a third term. Senator Chauncey M. Depew of New York has $5,000,000, which began to grow when he looked up with the Vanderbilt New York Central Railway line. Senator Westmore of Rhode Island has $5,000,000, which came principally by inheritance. Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley of Connecticut has $3,000,000 which has come from a life insurance company founded by his father, of which he is now president. Senator Levi Anthony of Washington is worth $2,000,000 and is a banker. Senator Nixon of Nevada has $2,000,000 made in mining, and Senator Crane of Massachusetts has $3,000,000 made from paper.

The Washington Herald recently printed a list of senator millionaires, and in addition to those above mentioned the New York Herald credits the following senators with the possession of a million dollars or more: Hale of Maine, Beckins of California, Warren of Wyoming, Scott of West Virginia, Knox of West Virginia, Fairbank of Ohio, Lodge of Massachusetts, Platt of New York, Bradley of Texas, Hopkins of Illinois, Martin of Virginia, Richardson of Delaware, Smith of Michigan, Briggs of New Jersey, Owen of Oklahoma, Penrose of Pennsylvania, Snoot of Utah.

LION TAMER TALKS OF PETS.
Timid Animals Less to His Liking Than the Pugnacious Ones.

A lion tamer, over his midnight supper, talked shop.
"The timid lion is the only one I fear," he said. "The fierce, pugnacious lion is my joy. What a show he gives the people for their money! Growing hideously, wrinkling his great face in dreadful snarls, gnashing his teeth and threatening to strike me with his paw, he goes through his tricks, and the audience is held in a delicious suspense, half hoping, half fearing, that the big brute will chew me up before their eyes."
"Yes, the fierce lion assures a fine attractive turn. But the timid one!"
"The timid lion, just when you want to give your best show, will whimper with terror at the crack of the whip, and sink off to the farthest corner of the cage, and turning its back to you, lie down and bury its face in its paws. Gosh!"

"But, say, do you know what I've been known to do? I've been known to dope up timid lions. Yes, sir, I dope them up till they were mauling. That's dangerous, too. Batty like that, they might do for you."

The Intelligent Public.
"It is amusing," said a librarian of a public library, "to see the way in which many of the public who are always clamoring for new fiction may be fooled with a new copy of an old novel."
"The experiment was tried recently of putting a fresh new copy of Mitchell's 'Hugh Wynne' on a shelf with new fiction. It was found to be constantly in demand and was even asked to be reserved, where before it had circulated not more than once or twice a month."

Smart, Preacher.
Little four-year-old Carrie went with her aunt to church. The preacher was very earnest in his delivery, and she was much interested. "Mother," said she, when she came home, "I've heard such a smart minister. He stamped and pounded, and made such a noise, and then he got so mad he shook his fists at the folks, and there wasn't anybody dared go up and fight him."

A Man's Opinion.
A persistent bachelor informs us that women would stubbornly refuse to vote if the men wanted to establish woman suffrage.

After All's Said and Done

Every woman knows it was the home oven that made baked beans a national food. Boiled beans are not baked beans. You've got to put them in the oven and let them bake—and bake in their own good time.

HEINZ Baked Beans are baked beans. Fix that fact in your mind. They're first soaked long enough to make them tender and then baked to a glorious brown in real ovens. The minute you see them you know they're baked, their fine flavor proves they're baked. When you open a can of the shining interior reflects the goodness of the contents. No solder, no soft spots, no discoloration on the inside. Just purity and brightness.

Put up three ways: With Tomato Sauce; Plain Pork and Beans (Boston Style); Vegetarian—without Pork.

HEINZ Baked Beans, like the rest of Heinz 57 Varieties, are sold by all grocers.

A Matter for Reflection.

"The editor of my paper," declared the newspaper business manager, to a little coterie of friends in his office, "is a peculiar genius. Why, would you believe it, when he draws his weekly salary he keeps out only one dollar for spending money and sends the rest to his wife in Indianapolis!"

His listeners—with one exception—gave vent to loud murmurs of wonder and admiration. This exception sat silent, gazing reflectively at the ceiling.

"I know it sounds thin," added the speaker, addressing the reflective friend; "but it is true, nevertheless."

"Oh, I don't doubt it at all!" quickly rejoined the exception; "only I was wondering what he does with the dollar!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Photography.

Practical photography first saw the light in 1839. On February 21 of that year Talbot, who had obtained permanent prints and camera images as early as 1835, published his process. Daguerre's was published on August 19, and somewhere between those two dates Ponton, in a paper read at the Royal Scottish Society of Arts, made known to the world his discovery that soluble organic matter, in the presence of an alkaline bichromate, was rendered insoluble by exposure to light—a discovery the value of which was not recognized for some years, but which is the basis of all that is included in "process work."—New York American.

VOTE FOR WILLIAM RUGER

On the last voting line of the official ballot will be found the name of William Ruger, Rock county's candidate for the office of supreme judge. His campaign has been clean and wholesome, backed by a home endorsement noted for unity. The county bar, with which he has been long associated, ask for his election, and the people, who have known him during a lifetime, stand solidly behind him, having confidence in his ability and fitness for the place.

A man's record is always his best eulogy, and so Mr. Ruger stands before the people with a record dating back to the days of civil strife, and continuing through the years unimpaired.

It is a pleasure to vote for such a man for his election means more than honoring a worthy candidate. The highest tribunal of the state should be represented by the best men that can be selected for this important service. Mr. Ruger represents in rare degree the highest type of ability and the state will be honored by his success. The campaign for chief justice has been a three-cornered fight with but two active contestants, for while the contest has been bitter between the present incumbent, Mr. Bashford, and Mr. Barnes, Mr. Ruger has maintained a dignified silence.

The governor has been criticised for appointing Mr. Bashford, on the eve of an election, but he felt obliged to do it. Possession, however, is no argument, in this case, and there is no reason why it should be so considered.

The fact is admitted by friends of the other candidates, that Mr. Ruger is eminently qualified for the office, and he is free from any and all entanglements. Everything considered, he is the logical candidate, and his election should not be a matter of doubt.

THE NEW PARK.

In another part of the paper will be found a diagram of the new park which gives an idea of how the property will look when improved. It may not be generally understood that the expense of laying out the grounds and caring for them, will be paid by the Pleasure and Driving Park association, but this is true.

Another condition which makes the investment easy, is found in the fact that payments may be distributed over a term of twenty years. This makes the tax burden light.

The park will be of peculiar benefit and pleasure to the school children in the vicinity, and it is so near the depot as to be available to people who are obliged to wait for trains.

There is no politics connected with the movement, and no suspicion of graft. The property is worth the price, and could be readily sold to private parties for the same money. The park question is the first which appears on the ballot, vote "Yes" and you will make no mistake.

MORE RURAL ROUTES

Much interest is being taken in the effort to secure a better rural mail delivery for the farmers of Rock county, and there is every reason to believe that something will be accomplished.

The people are entitled to better service and at least eight new routes should be established. When the routes were first planned it was found that some 48 or 50 would be required to cover the county effectively, but a spirit of economy caused the department to reduce the number, and the result has been a partial service, from which many people have suffered inconvenience.

Petitions are being circulated by the farmers who are deprived of service, and they should be liberally signed, as there is no reason why all neighborhoods should not share alike in rural distribution. Congressman Cooper has expressed a willingness to take the matter up, and assures the Gazette that he will do all that he can to give Rock county a complete service.

The only contest in any of the wards tomorrow is that in the second, when Ex-Alderman Inghelz is up for re-election opposed by his former opponent, Ex-Alderman Thumann. It promises to be a warm fight and one which will get the vote out.

This question of campaigning for office appears to be a question with politicians just now and Sherble Becker, the Mayor of Milwaukee, claims to have solved it by purchasing an automobile for good roads and an alibi for the bad roads in wet weather. Sherble does things by the wholesale when he starts.

There is still time for the voter to consider which ticket he will vote for as regards the delegates to the national republican convention—Taft or La Follette. Take your pick, but mark your ticket right.

By tomorrow night the much-mooted question of saloon or anti-saloon will be decided in Beloit. Also the Free Press editor can invite the Daily News editor to have a drink and bury the hatchet.

It may be all right to kick if your favorite loses out in a contest for office, but it is poor policy to argue in favor of an upheaval of the existing condition of affairs.

Secretary Taft made a whirlwind campaign in Chicago when he was only on an everyday visit. Thus far Taft's visits have been productive of votes wherever he has journeyed.

This is a good time to plan your garden, even if the elements seem to conspire against your planting.

Governor Davidson has not yet made his formal announcement that he is a candidate, but it is safe to say he will.

This Bashford-Barnes fight is one which promises much bitterness, no matter who is elected.

A vote for Mr. Ruger, on the machine tomorrow, will be recorded if the lower lever, opposite the announcement independent nomination, is pulled down. Do not forget to vote for him.

Just think of it, the city can purchase for $15,000 a strip of land suitable for a park that future generations will enjoy as long as the city lasts.

Chicago is still wondering where the saloon question will end.

GREAT CONDUCTOR HAW HUMOR.

Witty and Genial Remarks Credited to Dr. Hans Richter.

Countless are the stories of the geniality of Dr. Hans Richter, the famous musician. While rehearsing a Mozart symphony in which the first violins had a number of delicate trills and turns to perform, these were played too heavily for Richter, who said:

"Please, gentlemen, pianissimo! Queen Mab—not suffragettes."

Again, when on one occasion Richter was not thoroughly satisfied with the orchestra rendering of a scene from "Tristan and Isolde," he stopped the rehearsal and asked for more dignity in the playing, adding that Isolde was the daughter of a king, not of a cook. On another occasion, while rehearsing Tchaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" music, the violoncellos had a very passionate melody to play. Richter was by no means satisfied that the needful warmth of expression had been obtained.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," said he, "you all play like married men, not lovers."

The Magic Paper.

This curious incident of travel in Africa is told by A. Henry Savage Landor: "I wished to buy a bag of grain, but the woman who owned it would on no account accept silver money for it nor any article which she saw in my camp. My Somali servant had a bright idea—the only one he had during the entire journey across Africa. He went to one of the boxes of provisions and tore off a highly colored label from a corned beef tin. Having flicked it copiously, he stuck it in the middle of his forehead. Inhabitive, like a woman, the Caravan asked him what he did it for. The Somali said he had been seized with a violent headache and the colored paper was a certain cure. The Caravan at once offered the grain if the Somali would part with the magic paper. Her wish was satisfied without delay, and the woman departed happy."

Price of Social Safety.

The fermenting activity of ignorance is incessant, and perpetual thoughtfulness is the price of social safety.—Henry Van Dyke.

Work and Play.

According to the very wisest man that ever lived there is a time to work and a time to play. When working time comes every muscle may be put in motion, every nerve brought into play, every particle of brain force utilized. When resting time arrives, it should be devoted to storing up energy. Rest ought to be complete, absolute. There is no use laying aside one's occupation, unless that signifies cessation of worry and those activities of brain which wear out the body.

Not Drifting

There is such a thing as drifting in business and professional life. Just floating along day by day, taking things as they come. Such a course does not get a man anywhere except nearer to the Porchouse. Dr. Richards in his Dental work is not a drifter.

He has a definite policy. His work towards an end. That end is to please his every patient just a little better than his competitors.

Does this policy win?

The facts are, his Dental practice has grown during the last seven years until he has by far the largest Dental business in Janesville. Good work will win out.

Vigilant effort to avoid hurting also wins out.

Reasonable prices ought to appeal to your better judgment also.

Try him for your next Dental work, and you too will be convinced that he makes good.

SIX MEN ESCAPE DEATH NARROWLY

WALLS OF BUILDING ON FRANKLIN STREET FELL IN TODAY.

NORTH WALL CAVED IN

Workmen Digging Cellar Warned Just in Time to Seek Places of Safety.

This afternoon at three o'clock the entire north wall of the two-story brick building used by the Pemberton brothers as a tobacco warehouse on North Franklin street fell down into the cellar. Three workmen who were at work in the cellar and two who were in the office and one of the proprietors who was in the rear of the building narrowly escaped.

A bigger cellar was being dug under the building and the walls had not been shored up strong enough to hold them up. There were only about two hundred cases of tobacco in the building, so that it did not collapse from overloading.

The workmen, who were in the cellar, heard the wall begin to give and scrambled out. Mr. Pemberton was in the northwest corner of the building and felt it give. He hastened to the office in the front and told the two men who were there that the building was going to collapse and that they had better get out. Almost immediately after they had all left the building the entire north wall fell down into the cellar. The upper portion of the wall crumbled and the roof gave way, but the lower part of the wall is still in an upright position.

WORK IS PUSHED ON NEW GLASS FRONT.

T. J. Ziegler Clothing Co. to Have Finest Store in State—Clothing For Spring at Its Best.

Rebuilding operations on our store are progressing satisfactorily. Ten men were put on the job this morning and there is every indication that work will be rushed to completion. The present unsightly condition outside is no fair indication of what is in store for you in good clothing within. If you will remember we spoke when we first started this work of making it an object for you to bring your clothing and furnishing requirements here and if you have visited us during the rebuilding process, thus far you will know from experience that our statements are true.

There are clothing stores in this country larger, more comprehensive, perhaps, than this one, but none of them is any stronger in quality. The many years we have been in business have taught us much in the requirements of people and have also given us opportunity to know which manufacturers produce the best in clothing, furnishings, etc. Only the best find place in this store. The man or youth who pays $15 or $25 for a suit or overcoat is sublimely in the confidence that he has secured the worth of his money to the very last cent. The very proper colorings, patterns, cut, etc., are found in the clothing offered and this same spirit of up-to-dateness is followed throughout the boys' and children's department. Boys' suits and overcoats from $5.00 to $8.00 are top-notchers. A purchase of $4.00 in this department entitles the young man to six months' free subscription to the American Boy's Magazine.

This store is the exclusive agency in Janesville for Stetson hats at $3.50 to $5.00. Dunlop hats at $5.00. Guyer hats $2.00, and for those desiring something more moderate we have a splendid line for $2.00.

Wilson shirts at $1.50 which embody the handsomest, newest patterns and styles for 1908.

Every article is sold from this stock under a personal guarantee and money back always if you want it.

Spoke at Edgerton: Assemblyman A. S. Baker of Evansville and Roy, Higgins of Stoughton passed through here this morning. They addressed a temperance meeting in Edgerton last evening, which was held in Royal Hall. A large audience of nearly six hundred were present and heard Mr. Baker tell what "no license" has done for Evansville.

Reedsburg's New Church: Construction work is well under way on the new $15,000 Methodist church at Reedsburg, plans for which were drawn by Architects Hillen & Sadler of this city.

Plowing With An Engine: With the aid of a 22 horse power gasoline engine which pulls seven sixteen inch plows, the P. Hohmann Co. is preparing several acres daily for the spring planting. Aside from the difficulties with a heavy machine in soft ground, the agricultural innovation is working well.

Knight of the Globe: The Knights of the Globe will hold their regular meeting Tuesday evening, April 7, at Good Templars' hall. All Sir Knights and Daughters are requested to be present as there is important business to come before the meeting.

F. & A. M.: Special communication of Janesville Lodge No. 55, F. & A. M., at Monroe Temple tonight. Work. Visiting brethren invited.

In The Roman Mob: Clarence Van Buren and Kenneth Jeffis, Janesville students at Beloit college, are swelling the vociferous ranks of the Roman mob in the Ben Great performance of "Julius Caesar" at the Lino City this afternoon.

Grain in Court: Pines and rods amounting to $3.10 each were lodged against Chris Olson of Clinton, James Thompson of Emerald Grove, and David Stevenson of Footville, for drunkenness, in municipal court this morning. At noon all but the last named had made arrangements to get the money. John Mosher was sent to the county jail to serve three days for the same offense.

Marriage License: Application for a marriage license was filed today by John Norman Pike and Alma Knuth, both of Janesville.

MINOR GOT VERDICT AGAINST EMPLOYER

Andrew P. Lie Stands to Recover $125.00 and Costs from Albert H. Anderson of Avon.

After deliberations lasting several hours, a jury composed of L. C. Brewer, James Drummond, Walter Ditt, O. D. Rowe, A. E. Magdon, and Hart L. Gage, returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $125.00 and $27.50 costs, Saturday evening, in the case of Andrew P. Lie by his guardian and next friend, Nicholas Hagen, versus Albert H. Anderson of Avon.

The case was tried before Justice Stanley B. Tallman and owing to the large number of witnesses and speeches, the municipal court chamber was utilized. The case was represented by Lie and A. E. Magdon, and was argued by the defendant, Albert H. Anderson.

The plaintiff testified that the defendant employed him from October, 1907, until October, 1908, at a salary of $25.00 a month. The defendant testified that he employed the plaintiff for the same period at a salary of $25.00 a month, which was turned over to a third party as the purchase price of a horse, was all paid to him. The plaintiff testified that he was discharged from the defendant's employment on October 1, 1908, and that he was not paid for the work he had done. The defendant testified that he was not paid for the work he had done.

The jury found in favor of the plaintiff and awarded him $125.00 and $27.50 costs.

CITY SOON TO PAVE MILWAUKEE ST. HILL

Bids Will Be Opened on Friday and Contract May Be Let Immediately Thereafter.

Bids will be received on Friday for the brick paving work to be done on the two blocks of East Milwaukee street from Wisconsin to East street, and the city hall and Lincoln school alleys, and it is expected that work will be commenced on these improvements very soon thereafter. The present men have all resumed the building of sidewalks and the construction of the curbing on Wheeler and Carlington streets is under way. As soon as the preliminary work of securing the right-of-way across private property for the main sewer outlet, the 30-day notice of the adoption of the plans for District 2, which includes the territory west of Center avenue and the C. & N. W. tracks, will be published. After that the assessment will be levied and the call for bids issued.

ADVISE VOTERS TO CONSIDER MATTER

Ministers Tell Congregations to Weigh Their Vote on the Park Question.

Yesterday morning the various ministers of the different churches called the attention of their congregations to the question of the purchase of the Mitchell property, which comes before the voters tomorrow. They called attention to the fact that the high moral and physical effect of play was recognized by all educators and sociologists and that this was the last chance to procure property for park purposes in that portion of the city.

Each pastor asked that the Christian citizens of his congregation should consider carefully this question and vote as he thought the best interests of the city and its people demanded.

SENATOR FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS OF NEVADA

What He Stands For in The Upper House of Congress

Newlands of Nevada certainly headed the lion in his den when he attacked the corporate railroad interests at the annual banquet of the Traffic club of Chicago. He was the guest of honor as head of the inland waterways commission and was to have spoken upon the subject, "The Co-Ordination of Water and Rail Transportation." The senator's ire was aroused by the hits at railroad legislation by the farmer, Delos W. Cook, general traffic manager for the Erie road, who referred to the alleged popular belief that everyone seems to know how to run a railroad except a railroad man, and that with the mass of recent legislation the time of a traffic man is taken up with a strenuous endeavor to keep out of jail. He was followed by E. C. Dillard, whom Edward H. Harriman has employed to try to keep his traffic men on 16,000 miles of railroad in line with the interstate commerce law. Attorney Dillard further egged on the senator from Nevada by declaring that there had been of recent times put upon the statute books too many laws subversive of economic principles and harsh toward the enterprise with large capital which had passed beyond the domain of regulation into that of oppression.

The denunciation of the policies of railroads came like a thunderbolt when Senator Newlands arose to speak, and for nearly 20 minutes prominent men, commercial and railroad, sat under a spell, listening to the impassioned and yet deliberate philippic against corporate oppression.

The commercial traffic men wished to applaud, but deferred for a long time after seeing the gloomy and astonished countenances of the railway traffic officials. Finally their pent-up feelings could no longer be restrained and their burst forth in the new banquet hall of the Congress hotel a rousing cheer in which a few of the railway men took feeble part.

Continuing, Senator Newlands said: "Possibly the legislators may be responsible for the present and conditions and possibly the transportation managers themselves may be responsible for it and possibly both will have to share the responsibility."

"I remember that when as a member of the interstate commerce committee of the senate that committee was about to enter into an investigation of the entire subject of transportation with reference to framing a rate law, that I met on the threshold of the committee room some of my old friends, leaders in the management of traffic, men called railway magnates, and I gave them a word of advice, which I am sorry to say,

States, struggling against servitude, as they regard it, may in that struggle be guilty of excesses from which you may suffer and which they themselves may regret."

"My friends what was the contention made? Was the acquiescence in the doctrine that these great railway companies were simply public servants who were to obey the decrees of the public, the only limitation upon whose power was that they should indulge in no legislation of a confiscatory character? Oh no.

"I remember well, in that great hearing before the interstate commerce committee, how impressed I was with the intelligence the capacity the breadth of view and the loyalty of the traffic managers of the country. Few of the great controllers of transportation appeared before us, but their subordinates engaged in the practical business of meeting demands of sections and communities in the way of transportation presented themselves and offered to us most masterful expositions of the entire science of transportation.

"I want to distinguish between the great mass of the employees of these railroads, these men who are now struggling to keep out of jail, and the great magnates of transportation, who think that you invade a right when you insist upon it that they shall not juggle with the securities which are held by them in trust in such a way as to secure these enormous and gigantic fortunes.

"I was also impressed with the intelligence and especially of the shippers who appeared before us and with their breadth of view. Those who did appear before us in the main were friendly with the traffic managers.

"And I expressed some surprise that there should be apparently such harmony between the shippers and the traffic managers, and it was suggested that possibly the great public, the third party, was not represented, and that possibly by arrangements between great shippers and the traffic managers things might be so arranged as to oppress the public by securing fortune and profit to the great shippers.

"And so we in congress determined to see that the great public was represented in legislation, and we passed a reasonable bill, a moderate bill, a bill under which the railroads in the year following had as their gross revenue in this country $250,000,000 more than the year previous. And, if complaint is made of the action of congress, in depreciating the value of railway securities, my answer is that that depreciation did not come as the result of the action of congress, but it came as the result of the outcry of the great railway magnates themselves, who throughout the country raised the cry of confiscation, that impressed investors everywhere, here and abroad, and brought upon markets an avalanche of railroad stocks and bonds, and the disaster which has been occasioned has not been the result of injustice or oppression by congress or by the interstate commerce commission, authorized public to see that justice was secured, but was the result of unwise action, unwise alarm, unwise outcry by the railway controllers of the country, and a rose servile to them, regarding the possible or the realized results of the legislation that had been passed. "Now, my friends, there is no greater or more important question before the country today than that of transportation."

HOW MITCHELL PARK MAY LOOK IF IT IS PURCHASED

J. H. PROST, A CHICAGO LAND-SCAPE ARTIST, WRITES OF POSSIBILITIES OF PRO-POSED PARK.

LETTER FROM ARCHITECT

Writes of How the Park Idea Can be Carried Out With Great Success
Throughout Entire Strip.

Last week the Gazette published a statement of Mr. J. H. Prost, landscape architect of the West

or golden bell cheeks as with its beautiful flowers until the cold winter winds have robbed the last ly-drunken bloom of its bronze petals.

The same results should be gotten by the judicious planting of perennial flowers and from early spring
when the crocuses and snowdrops bring us glad tidings, until the last autumn has departed with its glowing farwell, we should have here masses of colors.

The fountain shown in the center can be made very interesting, with a continuous spray of water. This will give life to the surrounding color effects. Water in itself is a symbol of purity. It is refreshing even to may become a part of a more extended system; if this should be brought about in the future, and I ask again where will you stand when ultimately a national park commission will be together the great national, state, county, city and town public holding that will include such dominating landscape features as mountains, rivers, canyons, steep slopes, the river, sea and lake shores, land for the most part of little value for commercial purposes, but of great value as elements of beautiful landscapes.

You must act in a harmonious body
and secure this Mitchell property while it is reasonable in price, and do something that will make you all feel proud to have helped in your little ways to secure something worth while.

Yours sincerely,

J. H. PROST.

THE COST TO TAXPAYERS IN PURCHASING THIS PROPERTY IS BUT ONE CENT PER $100 PER YEAR
FOR SIXTEEN YEARS

Chicago Park commission relative to the city park of Janesville. Mr. Prost was so interested in the talk of purchasing the Mitchell property by the city that at the request of Dr. Dwight, president of the Janesville Park and Pleasure Drive association he drew a plan for the park and wrote the following description of how beautiful
this section of the city could be made.
The decision as to the purchase of the property lies with the voters on

look upon, and its patterning will ring
like music in the air.
Thus as people are resting in the park they will find delight and joy in the perfect color contrast against a green background. They will be impressed by the purity in the pool of crystal water. They will find it all simple, charming, full of poetry and music, and there will be inspiration in it for all.

NEW TURNKEY ASSUMES

C. G. Mihill, who was appointed

JANESVILLE BOOMING
IN BUSINESS LINES

Indications Point to Large Additions to City's Population This Year.

While other cities have felt the evil influence resultant on the recent financial troubles, Janesville has continued to move along in the same
even trend, steadily increasing in size without any perceptible boom. The increase in population has been gradual, but has thus far kept ahead of the house-building. However, indications point to a busy summer in the building line. Already ground has been broken for over thirty new homes and others are in contemplation in the immediate future. One of the latest moves in the real estate line is the proposed plotting of the property purchased last year by the Parker Pen Company for factory purposes. The gentlemen who own the property have decided to have the ground platted into lots after being sold out by a landowner and added to the city.

New factories are coming. Several already have made arrangements to rent property for factory purposes and with the new railroad yards growing in importance every day it is only a matter of a short time before Janesville will have a decided increase in population, a steady growth which is lasting and not of the mushroom variety.

So by each helping a little toward securing and making this an artistic park, all will, in return, obtain the full benefit of the contributions of the whole.

You the citizens of Janesville have not done your share in park making.

Hundreds of other cities in the United States with a population less than that of your city, are doing and have done a great deal more for their citizen.

Where do you stand in this movement to make our whole county a park?

See how the government is making for a vast national park system, represented by such landscape reservations as the national parks of Mt.
Ranier, Yellowstone, Yosemite, General Grant and Sequoia, and by the 100 of forest reservations in the different states.

Every Improvement association should secure and adopt a plan for the future development of the town
as a whole, showing street extensions and public park areas to include such features in such a way that they

HART'S SERMONS
ARE INTERESTING

STRONG, FORCEFUL SPEAKER AT THE METHODIST CHURCH.

SHAMS, TOPIC LAST NIGHT

Gave an Address to Magnificent Audience That Crowded Church and Lecture Room.

At the conclusion of an eloquent appeal to sinners made by Evangelist Hart last night at the Methodist church in his great sermon on "Shams," many persons thronged the altar for salvation and remission of sin.

So earnest were the words of the evangelist that the great audience sat in rapt attention throughout the long sermon, as the speaker expatiated on "Shams" found today in the business world, the social world and the church.

The music of the evening added much to the effectiveness of the service, nearly a hundred voices being in the choir. Under the management of Mr. Maginn the choir sang in perfect unison the oldtime songs and many new ones which filled the church with the volumes of their melody. Mr. Maginn's solo harmonized with the thought of the sermon and was full of pleading words for the repentant sinner.

Mr. Hart took for his text the third chapter of Genesis and the ninth verse: "Where Art Thou?"

He said it makes no difference how good a covering we may put over our sins, there is nothing so thick that the penetrating eye of God does not pierce it and lay bare all the shame and hypocrisy which he may be trying to conceal. The question of the text involves the condition of many questions. It was the plan of God that man should enjoy the greatest success possible, when he placed him in the garden of Eden with all privileges and necessities of life and gave him a companion. But man was not satisfied. If God were to place hundreds of opportunities for salvation in the way of the sinner and he would not give up everything for the service of the Lord, then nothing in earth or in heaven can save him. The matter all rests with the individual.

There are three distinct classes of people—the believer, the back slider and the sinner. Paul said, "Do not conform to this world but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." People cannot be saved by simply joining the church for it takes a sincere heart and a pure mind to live the divine life. Unless this is secured it makes no difference if our names are written twenty times on the church register it will avail us nothing.

What is a sham? A sham is a young fellow walking down the street with his trousers pressed to razor edge,
a cigarette in his mouth and swinging a cane. That is a sham and a genuine article, too. A sham is something which looks good on the outside and is nothing on the inside.

"Oh, what a worthless creature is a sham. He is worse than a carter or a drunkard. There is no honesty in a sham for his very being is contained in deception, and honesty is the greatest thing among men. The sham is commonplace, coming from all avenues of life, and from all parts of the world. He may be found in politics, in business, society or religion. Of all shams, I think the religious sham is the worst. For a man to profess to be something when he is nothing, placing himself on a low plane of relations with his fellow men.

When I see men going down the street on Sunday morning with a little under their arms whom I know are accustomed to indulge in their social glass and have card parties at their homes where prizes are offered,
I think what shams some people are practicing.

The hardest class of people to reach are those who are perfectly indifferent to their future welfare and who take no interest in the church or religion. These people who are not committing any tangible crimes are the most dangerous to the cause of Christ and religion.

There are some mothers here in Janesville who do not know where their precious boys are tonight. They do not try to interest them in the church services, but allow them to go their way no matter where it leads,
whether to the house of shame or to the saloon.

If we could get people here in Janesville to become alive to this issue and feel the need of helping their fellow brothers to Christ, we could have a gracious revival. What the world needs today is a race of praying mothers who will watch their sons and daughters, to keep them
from going the downward road.

The question in the text, "Where Art Thou?" is one of infinite love and pity for the poor sinner who is wandering out from the protecting arm of the Lord.

"Oh, sinners, if you will only communicate he is willing and anxious to forgive you of all your sins." The great love and pity of Jesus is illustrated by the shepherd who leaves the 99 safe sheep to go over rough places for the lost one. The placement of sin had but for a short time,
while the blessings of the Lord remain forever. The Great Shepherd is seeking for you tonight. Do not longer be the wandering sheep, but come into the fold.

It's the Idea That Counts.

It is easy to improve what has already been invented.—Latin Proverb.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without
Destroying the Cause of it.

Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff;
and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in

FATE OF SALOON IN THE BALANCE

LOCAL OPTION BATTLE IN MANY PLACES IN ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO LIKE AN OASIS

Whole State Outside Metropolis May Go Dry Tuesday and April 21
—Contest in Michigan Counties.

Chicago, Apr. 6.—"Shall this town become anti-saloon territory?" In more than 1,200 cities, villages and townships in Illinois outside of Chicago this question will be answered at the polls next Tuesday and on April 21. The voting on this question of public policy will be the culmination of a hard fought battle between the anti-saloon organizations and the liquor interests.

Upon the answer to the question given by the people will depend the extent to which Illinois will be a prohibition state for the next two years. If the question should carry overwhelmingly in the affirmative more than 80 out of the 102 counties in the state will become "dry" territory. With only a moderate degree of success the reform forces will wrest more than half the state from the hold of the saloon interests.

On the eve of the battle of ballots the prevailing opinion is that the anti-saloon people have the best of the situation.

Dry Belt Around Chicago.

If the dries carry the day there will be a revolution in civic conditions throughout the state. To the citizens of Chicago it will be particularly noticeable. Chicago in that event not only will be the only large city containing saloons, but it will be surrounded in all probability by a wide belt of dry territory closing in upon the city limits on all sides.

In 11 Cook county townships contiguous to Chicago and containing the nearest suburbs the citizens will vote on the saloon question. The townships are Barrington, New Trier, Hanover, Maine, Proviso, Palos, Calumet, Lyons, Orland, Thornton and Homewood. If these townships go dry Chicago will be graced by a score of prohibition suburbs, while the summer gardens and road houses on the outskirts of the city either will have to become temperance resorts or close their doors.

Large Cities to Vote Tuesday.

There are only eight large cities within the state where the question will not be settled. These are Chicago, Peoria, Quincy, East St. Louis, Streator, Ottawa, La Salle and Galena. In the remainder of the larger municipalities and the townships the battle will end with a decision at the polls on Tuesday. The smaller cities and the villages will remain in the throes of the campaign until April 21.

The smaller city will have an opportunity to vote again on April 21, if the township within which it lies goes wet in the election on Tuesday next, providing its petition has been on file 30 days.

The anti-saloon people are confident of winning in Rockford, Waukegan, Elgin, Rock Island, Galesburg, Bloomington, Danville and Decatur. Even in Springfield, Joliet and Aurora the rising wave of their movement in the last ten days has given them strong hope of success. Then there are scores of smaller cities that they assert they will carry without a doubt.

The women and children have played a prominent part in the battle, and in many places the victory looked for by the anti-saloon forces will be directly due to their efforts. In scores of cities they have paraded daily, pleading with the men to protect them and their homes.

Battle in Michigan Counties. Detroit, Mich., Apr. 6.—Fourteen counties in Michigan vote on the question of local option Monday. They are as follows: Cass, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Oakland, Clinton, Barry, Gratiot, Midland, Gladwin, Oscoda, Wexford, Missaukee, Grand Traverse and Oceana. The anti-saloon forces picked these counties to make the fight in this spring, owing to the fact that all are largely agricultural centers, where prohibition sentiment is generally considered to be stronger than in cities.

Kalamazoo, in Kalamazoo county, and Pontiac, in Oakland county, are the largest cities in the 14 counties. In Kalamazoo betting is strongly in favor of the "wet," and "wet" sentiment is said to be responsible for the heaviest registration for years at Pontiac. Regulation of saloons was also the dominant feature of the campaign at Jackson, party lines being obliterated.

Woman Kills Negro Burglar. Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 6.—Mrs. Ed Jones, a prominent white woman of this city, shot and killed a negro burglar at her home at three o'clock Sunday morning. The burglar was engaged in a hand-to-hand struggle with her aged father, Barney Rhody.

Rev. Edward Abbott Is Dead. Boston, Apr. 6.—Rev. Edward Abbott, D. D., pastor emeritus of St. James church, Cambridge, a prominent preacher, journalist and author, and a brother of Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, died at the Homeopathic hospital in this city Sunday.

Spaniard Embodies $400,000. Madrid, Apr. 6.—One of the principal tax collectors of the province of Almeria has fled from the country, having, it is charged, embezzled $400,000 of the public funds.

TWO 'LYNCHINGS' IN SOUTH.

Swift Justice Meted Out to Negroes
by Mob.

Weason, Miss., Apr. 6.—John Burr, a young negro, was lynched near here Sunday by 30 men for the murder of a 12-year-old white boy.

Saturday night, according to Burr's confession and the story of an eye witness, he was fishing in a mill pond when Earl Smith, the son of J. W. Smith, a planter, approached and began a conversation. Burr was an employee of Smith's father and he said to the boy: "Look up, look at the bird."

As young Smith gazed skyward, the negro shot him in the back of the head with a shotgun. Burr threw the boy's body into the mill pond and fled, but was captured by officers and was on his way to jail when a crowd took the prisoner away from the officers and hanged him from a tree.

Mobile, Ala., Apr. 6.—Walter Clayton, a negro who was serving time at the stockade of the Hand Lumber company for manslaughter, late Saturday afternoon assaulted Mrs. Joseph White, aged 26 years, and was lynched by a mob of 75 men outside the limits of Bay Minette.

BIG FIRE IN WISCONSIN TOWN.

Elk Mound Threatened with Destruction—Loss is $20,000.

Eau Claire, Wis., Apr. 6.—Fire Sunday in the yards of the Badger State Lumber company, 12 miles west of here, threatened the destruction of the village of Elk Mound, adjoining the yards. In response to calls sent here for help, a special train on the Northwestern conveyed apparatus to the scene and saved the town. The lumber company's entire plant including office buildings was wiped out, together with the mercantile establishment of Brackett, Reppine & Weber, three loaded freight cars, and the village fire department building and contents. Loss, $20,000. The authorities are looking for three tramps who are suspected of setting fire to the lumber yards.

Becker Plans Balloon Canvass.

Chicago, Apr. 6.—Mayor Becker of Milwaukee has decided to run for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Wisconsin. Or rather, to fly for it. He has been in Chicago several days laying his plans and admits he has ordered a large balloon in which he proposes to tour the northern part of his state in search of votes.

Love Affair Leads to Suicide.

Philadelphia, Apr. 6.—William J. Troop, formerly a professional roller skater, committed suicide in a hotel here Sunday night by swallowing laudanum. He left several letters, in one of which it was intimated that a love affair was responsible for his suicide.

"The Ordeal" by Fire.

The really strong scene of the play had arrived and the amateur hero braced himself for the effort. The house into which the wily villain had entangled him was on fire, and his thrilling escape from the burning structure was where he was going to bring down the house.

"I am choking!" he cried. "The smoke is overpowering me!"

"That would have been all right except for the fact that there was no smoke, and it seems unreal to choke with smoke when there isn't any smoke to choke with."

"The flames!" he cried. "The flames—I feel them!"

But the flames were absent also. He glanced into the wings and realized what had happened. Some one had dumped the red fire.

It was a moment of terrible strain. Nothing relieved the situation, and he lost his head and rambled on about the fire that no one could see. It was awful, and it was worse when a big brute in the gallery bellowed forth:

"Never mind the fire, guy! Get on with your job!"

And then the actor laughed a wild, maniacal laugh, and the kindly curtain came down.—London Tit-Bits.

Free Mustard.

James Russell Lowell said, "All deacons are good, but there are odds in deacons," and it may be added that there are odds in other varieties of men.

Squire Blank was not only the richest man in his village, but the stingiest as well. Nothing gave him such keen delight as to get something for nothing. One day he and several of his neighbors had been in conference with a manufacturer who contemplated establishing a mill in the town. The conference was held in the one store of the village, and at its close the manufacturer stepped up to a showcase containing cigars and said:

"I have a cigar, gentlemen."

All the men selected a cigar except Squire Blank. He did not smoke. Therefore he said:

"Thank you, sir, but I don't smoke. But as the cigars are a fine plea for I'll take a dime's worth of mustard if you say so."

Of course the astonished gentleman said so, and the squire went home jubilant over "a half pound of mustard that never cost me a red cent."

The Petty Things. How all small cares and vexations, which daily accompany our life vanish at the iron appearance of real misfortune, and I feel like so many reproaches the consciousness of all complaints and covetous wishes over which I have so often forgotten how much blessing God gives us, and how much danger surrounds us without touching us.—Blamark.

SISTER REPUBLIC GROWS SUSPICIOUS

MEXICANS FEAR AMERICAN DESIGNS
ON THEIR TERRITORY.

NEWSPAPERS TO BLAME

Baseless Gossip and Criticism in the Press Produce a Situation Both Exasperating and Dangerous.

Washington, Apr. 6.—While the official relations between the United States and Mexico were never more cordial than now, and while there is nothing in the material interests or desires of either republic which could lead to the slightest degree with the other, officials of the American state department have become suddenly aware of the existence and rapid growth of a public sentiment in Mexico of distrust and suspicion of American and American intentions respecting Mexican territory.

This condition is made more exasperating, but none the less harmful and embarrassing by the fact that it is entirely groundless and, the officials declare, has for its basis nothing but irresponsible newspaper gossip and criticism. Such, for instance, as a lurid description of Maximilian bay where the fleet has just concluded target practice, with a hint thrown in that the location and natural surroundings are ideal for a naval rendezvous and target practice station; and that the place ought to be bought from Mexico.

Newspapers Are Blamed. Just such comments as these, printed without the least official inspiration or sanction, wholly misrepresenting actual conditions, are believed by American officials to be entirely responsible for the distrust rapidly developing in Mexico.

The officials also assert that southern and western papers have indulged in what is regarded here as unnecessary criticism relating to the extradition of criminals, have magnified minor troubles in Mexico and made comments irritating in character regarding the control of the Colorado river as a boundary stream.

Mexican Plotters in America.

The serious effect of this accumulation of adverse comment has been brought home to the American administration in perfectly frank statements from the Mexican authorities. Added to the accumulation, and perhaps the only thing which is complained of officially by Mexico, is the seeming security and asylum afforded here to persons regarded in Mexico as conspirators and revolutionary agitators. The representation is made that such persons come to the United States and inaugurate a propaganda against Mexico, print literature for circulation there and undertake the preliminary steps toward revolution.

In answer to this complaint, the state department has pointed out that it was vigorous and successful in putting a stop to the operation of just such a plan recently attempted in St. Louis and that it is ready to repeat the operation whenever a similar situation may exist.

Results May Be Disastrous.

Attention is called to the fact that comment which has been indulged in by the American press has found its way into and been repeated in Mexico, where the construction placed on it has been serious and the feeling engendered mainly harmful. If allowed to continue, most disastrous results are predicted. Officials emphasize that the situation are entirely devoid of any authority to remedy the evil and are endeavoring as best they may to counteract the harmful effect of what has been thoughtlessly said, through a presentation of its utter lack of responsibility.

Badly Beaten by Robbers.

New York, Apr. 6.—Joseph J. Cassidy, a clerk in a cigar store in the Manhattan Hotel building on Forty-second street, is critically ill at a hospital, following injuries received at the hands of three men who attempted to rob the cash register in the cigar store in broad daylight Sunday. Cassidy was attacked with blackjacks and frightfully beaten.

DAVID JAYNE HILL.

Washington, April 6.—David Jayne Hill, who has been rejected as United States ambassador to Germany by Emperor William, is one of the foremost American authorities on international law. He was born in Plainfield, N. J., in 1859. After graduation from Bucknell university, Pa., in 1877 he studied in Berlin and Paris. From 1879 to 1888 he was president of Bucknell university and from 1888 to 1896 president of the University of Rochester. Resigning the latter post, he spent three years in study of the public laws of Europe and then became professor of European diplomacy in the school of comparative jurisprudence and diplomacy in this city. From 1898 to 1903 he was assistant secretary of state. He has lately been ambassador to Switzerland and to the Netherlands and representative of the United States at the Hague tribunal.

Smallest Visible Things. Few persons would guess that the smallest things visible to the eye are the stars. Yet, according to a high authority, such is the case. Great as many of the stars are in actual magnitude, their distance is so immense that their angular diameter becomes insensible and they approach to the condition of geometrical points. The minute disks that they appear to have are spurious; an effect of radiation.

A Half Truth. "The heroine let her beautiful hair fall about her shoulders," wrote the novelist. Being an idealist he neglected to state that the fastenings came loose and that the hair fell in a heap on the floor.

The Captain of the Kansas

BY LOUIS TRACY
Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," "The King of Diamonds," Etc.

ILLUSTRATED BY BERNEKER

A terrific tropical storm, a dynamite explosion in the ship's coal disabling her engines, mutiny in the crew and cannibals without conspire against the brave and gallant captain of the Kansas. The presence among the passengers of a charming young woman, heroic as the captain himself, throws the glamour of a love romance over the perils of the deep. Told in the author's captivating style it makes a tale of the sea irresistible in its charm. That is why

It Will Be Printed in This Paper

THE thrilling incidents of this story were obtained from the log of the good ship Kansas, Captain Courtenay, bound from Valparaiso to London. She carried a small number of select passengers and a valuable cargo of copper intended to break the European corner on that metal. That is why unprincipled men in the copper pool employed a villain to put dynamite in the ship's coal bunkers, confident she would encounter a storm before she was clear of the Straits of Magellan, for with the engines out of commission the ship could hardly hope to weather the gale. Whether Neptune was in the pool or not we do not know, but it is certain

there was some fierce blowing on the second day out when, nearing Desolation Island, the engines were stopped by an explosion. Things happened quickly then. With the disabled ship, the killed and wounded stokers, the mutinous crew and a terrific sea, Captain Courtenay had his seamanship put to a severe test. If the Captain was a hero Elsie Maxwell was doubly a heroine for she had only a woman's heart and feminine charms to match a sailor's experience. Under the inspiration of the tenderest sentiments she developed the highest courage, as often happens with woman. If you remember the slump in copper you will conclude the Kansas finally reached port. Whether she did or not and how the affair between Elsie and Captain Courtenay ended you can learn by reading the story

The story is full of exciting adventure, and is unusually interesting because of its unusual setting.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Information to Voters in Regard to the Election to Be Held on April 7, 1908.

DIRECTIONS FOR VOTING ON THE VOTING MACHINE: 1st. Close the curtain. 2d. Pull the Yellow Lever having on it the names of your political party over to the right until the Bell rings. (This will turn down the Pointers over the names of the candidates in your party.) 3d. If you wish to vote a Straight Party Ticket, leave the Pointers as they are (Down, in their voting position). But if you wish to "split," or "scratch," your ticket, turn Up the Pointer from over the name of the candidate in your own party that you wish to cut out, and then turn Down the Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for the office, and leave it there. 4th. Vote for the Judges in column No. 15 and higher, by turning down a Pointer over each name you wish to vote for, and leaving it there. (As these are non-partisan officers, they must each be voted for individually, as their Pointers are not turned down by the pulling of the Party Levers.) 5th. Open the Curtain. NOTE—unless you are sure that you know just how to operate the machine, it would be well for you to practice on some machine before election day.

HOW TO VOTE ON THE U. S. STANDARD VOTING MACHINE.

Move the Red Handle of the Curtain Lever to the right as far as it will go.
This will close the Curtain around you, and unlock the machine for voting.

VOTER ABOUT TO CLOSE THE CURTAIN.

HOW TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS.

To vote Yes, turn the Question Pointer to the word Yes, and leave it there. To vote No, turn the Question Pointer to the word No, and leave it there.

HOW TO VOTE A STRAIGHT TICKET.

Having closed the Curtain—Pull the Party Lever bearing the name or emblem of your Party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS, and then let it go back. This turns down to a voting position all of the Pointers of the candidates of your party.

The ringing of the bell signifies that the Party Lever has been pulled far enough to unlock the Curtain Lever and engage the registering mechanism.

VOTER PULLING OVER PARTY LEVER.

The turned down Pointers indicate the names of the candidates for whom the vote will be cast.

Leave the Pointers as they are (down in a voting position).

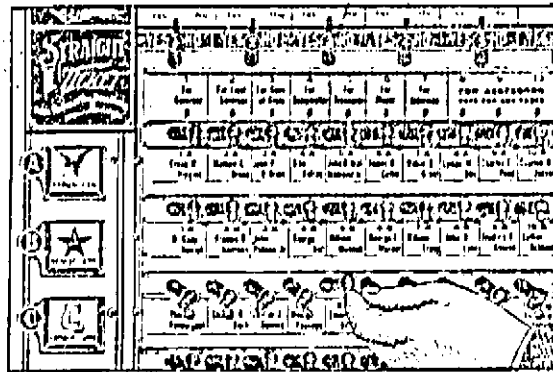

Move the Red Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go.

This will count your vote, open the Curtain, and set the machine for the next voter.

HOW TO VOTE A SPLIT TICKET.

Having closed the Curtain—Pull the Party Lever bearing the name or emblem of your Party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS, and then let it go back. This turns down to a voting position all of the Pointers of the candidates of your party.

Turn back (up) the Pointer from over the name of the candidate you wish to cut. See illustration below.

And then turn down a Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for that office. See illustration below.

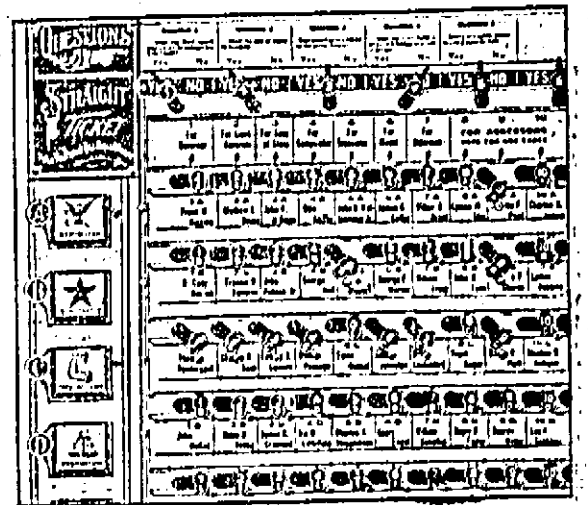

Be sure to complete each Split before making another.

For an office to which two or more candidates are to be elected, the required number of candidates can be voted for, and no more, regardless of position.

After the vote is arranged, move the Red handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go. This will count one vote for every candidate that has a Pointer left down over his name.

HOW TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS.

To vote Yes, turn the Question Pointer to the word Yes, and leave it there. To vote No, turn the Question Pointer to the word No, and leave it there.

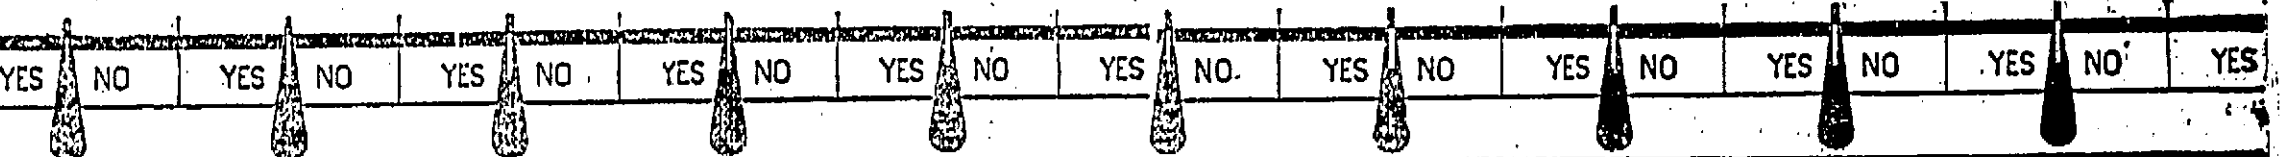

THE ABOVE CUT SHOWS:

That the voter has voted Party Lever "C" and then—Split his vote for Treasurer, on Column 7.
That he has voted for Assessors, voting for three on Column 9 (for which office he is permitted to vote for any three candidates on either of the Columns, 8, 9, and 10).
That he has voted "Yes" on Questions 1 and 2.
That he has not voted on Questions 3 and 5.
That he has voted "No" on Question 4.
If the voter desires, he may make any further changes while the Curtain remains closed, as the vote is not registered until the Curtain is opened.
The Pointers must be left down over the names to be voted for. If the voter turns them back the vote will not be counted, as the opening of the Curtain turns back the Pointers and counts the vote.

JUDGE ZELL G. ROE.
Des Moines, Iowa, April 6.—"Gleaner"

anted matrimonial knots" is the innovation of Judge Zell G. Roe in this city. Every couple seeking a marriage certificate from this young and enterprising Judge gets a divorce coupon which is good for free legal services for a divorce within one year after their marriage. The success of the Judge in tying the knots has been such as to attract hundreds of couples to him during the last six months and so far he has not had to assist a single one in getting a divorce.

In connection with his justice office the Judge has elaborately furnished a room for the marriage ceremony. "This may be entered privately without going through the court room. Here it is the "warranted to last" ceremony is performed. Judge Roe will not make known the admission he gives the bride and groom and none have yet been prevailed upon to divulge his secret, his success however, is apparent. There have been no divorces of couples who exchanged vows in his marriage room. It is said by those who have passed through the ordeal that some good plain common sense talk is given both bride and groom and each is told their plain duty of forbearance with the failings of each other.

More marvellous is the success of the Judge in this respect because he is himself a bachelor.

Drink Scourge in France.
What the French call "alcoholismo" has grown to be a dreadful scourge, and a direful portent for the future of the people. In some parts of France the very medical men must be consulted early in the day if they are to be found sober.—Church Quarterly Review.

Would Be Interesting.
The doctor who declares that men are more beautiful than women is still insisting that this is not said in idle jest. At the same time it would be interesting to learn the identity of his lady acquaintance.

Takes Snapshots of Guests.
A woman well known for her love of amateur photography as well as hospitality, has, ever since her marriage, carried out the plan of "speeding the parting guest" by taking a snapshot of them. The result is in the guestroom, where a frieze of photographs shows the gallery, making an interesting collection, and one that entertains every new visitor that the room abhors.

French Penal Settlements.
About 6,000 of the toughest criminals of France and her colonies, including Algerian Arabs and negroes, are scattered in settlements along the Maroni and Mana rivers in the eastern part of French Guiana, South America. The government selected as the homes of these criminal exiles districts that were regarded as very unhealthful.

Two Views.
The pessimist, wiping his eyes in the great March wind, growled: "It's either dusty or muddy all the time in this infernal climate." But the optimist, with a sunny smile, replied: "What a blessing it is never both muddy and dusty at once!"

The Weaving.
Sir William Hunter says the Dacca weavers employ no fewer than 125 different elements. A piece spun in 1837 and being carefully weighed and measured was actually found to be 20 1/2 yards in length and only five grains in weight.

GOOD BLOOD

NATURE'S PROTECTION AGAINST DISEASE

The preservation of health and prevention against disease is almost entirely dependent upon pure, healthy blood; every organ, tissue, nerve and sinew of the body draws on this vital fluid for nourishment and strength. Poisons, humors and germs from various sources often get into the blood, and then this great life-stream becomes a source of infection and disease, instead of a nourishing, health-sustaining fluid. Heredity is likewise an important factor, regulating the quality of the blood. Some persons are born with tainted blood from diseased ancestry, and Scrofula in one of its numerous forms is sure to crop out some time in life. Not only poisons in the blood are responsible for disease, but when the circulation is run down and becomes poor and weak in quality, then we see the effect in a general bad condition of health, such as weakness, sallow complexions, boils, and various skin eruptions. All blood troubles require a tonic and blood purifier, and none other equals S. S. S. It goes down to the very foundation of the trouble, and removes every particle of the poison or impurity from the blood. And not only does S. S. S. antidote the poisons, humors and germs, but it possesses health-giving, tonic properties, which build up and strengthen weak, impoverished blood, and fortifies the system against disease. S. S. S. permanently cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Itchiness, Tetter, and all other skin diseases and disorders. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

THE CAPTAIN OF the KANSAS

By LOUIS TRACY.

Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EDWARD J. CLODE

In this story of danger and hardship, cheerfully borne and courageously met by the brave captain of the Kansas and the sweetheart whose love lightened his burdens when his vessel picked out a path for herself through the perilous reefs of the South American coast, the author of "The Wings of the Morning" and "The Pillar of Light" justifies his reputation as a writer of absorbingly interesting tales of love and adventure. The brave navigator and his sweetheart learned the stern meaning of hardship and danger on the Kansas. In the end, however, with the telegraph lever set for "full speed ahead," the ship sailed out of the difficulties which storm and rocky coast and savage men had set in her path.

CHAPTER I.

"I THINK I shall enjoy this trip," purred Isabel Barling, nestling comfortably among the cushions of her deck chair. A steward was arranging tea for two at a small table. The Kansas, with plumed hum of engines, was speeding evenly through an azure sea. "I agree with that opinion most heartily, though, to be sure, so much depends on the weather," replied her friend, Elsie Maxwell, rising to pour out the tea. Already the brisk sea breeze had kissed the children's hair from Elsie's face, which had regained its English peach bloom. Isabel Barling's complexion was tanned with the warmth of a pomegranate. At sea, even in the blue Pacific, she carried with her the suggestion of a tropical garden.

"I never gave a thought to the weather," purred Isabel again as she subsided more deeply into the cushions.

"Let us hope such a blissful state of mind may be justified. But you know, dear, we may run into a dreadful gale before we reach the strait."

Isabel laughed. "All the better!" she cried. "People tell me I am a most fascinating invalid—I look like a creamy orchid. And what luck to have a chum so disinterested as you where a lot of nice men are concerned! What have I done to deserve it? Because you are really charming, you know."

"Does that mean that you have already discovered a lot of nice men on board?"

Elsie handed her friend a cup of tea and a plate of toast.

"Naturally. While you were mooning over the lights and tints of the Andes I kept an eye—both eyes, in fact—on our compulsory acquaintances of the next three weeks. To begin with, there's the captain."

"He is good looking, certainly. Somewhat reserved, I fancied."

"Reserved?" Isabel showed all her fine teeth in a smile. Incidentally she took a satisfactory bite out of a square of toast. "I'll soon shake the reserve out of him. He is mine. You will see him play pet dog long before we meet that terrible gale of yours."

"Isabel, you promised your father—" "To look after my health during the voyage. Do you think I intend only to sleep, eat and read novels all the way to London? Then indeed I should be ill. But there is a French count on the ship. He is mine too."

"You mean to find safety in numbers?"

"Oh, there are others. Of course I am sure of my little count. He is a bit of a playmate with such an air when I skidded past him in the companionway. I am sure M. le Comte Edouard de Polneville will do my French far more good than a course in Moliere."

"Am I to be included in the lesson? And you actually know the man's name already?"

"Read it on his luggage, dear girl. He has such a lot. See if he doesn't wear three different colored shirts for breakfast, lunch and tea. And if you refuse to help, who is to take care of M. le Comte Edouard while I give the captain a trot round? Don't look cross; there's a darling!"

"Now, Isabel, that does not matter a bit in Valparaiso, where you are known, but in Paris and London—" "Where I mean to be equally well known. It is a passport to smart society to be a trifle risque. Steward, give my compliments to Captain Courtney and say that Miss Maxwell and I have found them. Miss Barling hopes he will favor them with his company to tea."

Elsie's bright, eager face flushed slightly. She leaned forward, with a certain squaring of the shoulders, baring a determined young person in some respects.

"For once I shall let you off," she said in a low voice. "So I give you your warning, Isabel—I must not be included in impromptu invitations of that kind."

"Good gracious! I only meant to be polite. Tut, tut! as dad says when he can't swear before ladies. I shan't make the running for you any more."

Elsie drummed an impatient foot on the deck. There was a little pause. Isabel closed her eyes lazily, but when opened them again when she heard her friend say:

"I am sorry if I seem crotchety, dear. Indeed, it is no pretense on my part. You cannot imagine how that man Ventana persecuted me. The more suggestion of any one's paying me compliments and trying to be fascinating is so repellent that I cringe at the thought."

Isabel Barling raised her head from the cushions.

"Ventana was a determined wooer, then? What did he do?" she asked.

"He pestered me with his attentions. Oh, I should have liked to flog him with a whip!"

"He was always that sort of person—too serious." And the head dropped again.

The steward returned. He was a half caste. His English was to the point.

"Do you say he is busy, he is coming?" was his message.

Elsie's display of irritation vanished in a merry laugh. Isabel bounced up from the depths of the chair. Her dark eyes blazed veritably.

"Tell him"—she began.

Then she mastered her annoyance suddenly to ascertain what it was that Captain Courtney had actually said, and she received a courteous explanation in Spanish that the commander could not leave the chart house until the Kansas had rounded the low lying, red head Cape Horn, which still barred the ship's path to the south, the first stage of the long voyage from Valparaiso to London.

But pertinacity was a marked trait of the Barling family. Otherwise Isabel's father, a bluff, churchwarden type of man, would not have won his way to the chief place in the firm of Barling, Thompson, Miguel & Co., mining and export agents, the leading house in Chile's principal port. Notwithstanding Elsie's previous outburst the steward was sent back to ask if the ladies might visit the bridge later. Meanwhile would Captain Courtney like a cup of tea? All things considered, there was only one possible answer: Captain Courtney would be charmed if they favored him with both the tea and their company.

"I thought so!" cried Isabel triumphantly. "Come on, Elsie! Let us climb the ladder of conquest. The steward will bring the tea things. The chart house is just splendid. It will provide a refuge when the count becomes too pressing."

There was a tightening of Elsie's lips to which Isabel paid no heed. The humiliated protest was left unspoken, for Courtney's voice came to them:

"Hence hold on by the rail. If a foot were to slip on one of those benches trends the remainder of the day would be a compound of tears and sticking plaster."

Gathering her skirts daintily in her left hand, Isabel tripped up the steep stairs. Elsie followed. Courtney, who had the manner and semblance of the first lieutenant of a warship, stood outside a haven of plate glass, shining mahogany and white paint. The woodwork of the deck was scrubbed until it had the color of new bread. An officer paced the bridge. A sailor with wheel of the steam steering gear. Somewhat to Isabel's surprise neither man seemed to be aware of her presence.

"So this is your den?" she said, throwing her birdlike glance over the bright interior before she gave the commander a look which was designed to bewitch him instantly. "Surely you don't sleep here too?"

"Oh, no. This room is the brain of the ship, Miss Barling. We are always wide awake here. My quarters are farther aft. I think I can find a chair for you if you care to sit down while I have my tea."

The captain led the way to a spacious cabin behind the chart house.

"I hope you don't mind the chairs being secured to the deck," he said, taking off his hat. "So far above sea level, you know, everything that is loose comes to grief when the ship rolls."

"Then what becomes of your photographs?" demanded Isabel promptly, her quick eyes having discovered the pictures of two ladies in silver frames on a writing table.

"I take care to put them away. There is always plenty of warning. No ordinary sea can trouble a big hulk like the Kansas."

"Is that your mother, the dear old lady in the blue cap?"

"Yes, and the other is my sister."

"Oh, really? Is she married?"

"No. Like me, she is wedded to her profession."

"Will you think it rude if I ask what that is?"

"She is a hospital nurse—the matron, indeed, of a public institution in the suburbs of London."

Isabel filled a cup of tea, asked if Captain Courtney took milk and sugar and said demurely, with a sip of a spoonful:

"Let me see if I can guess your tastes."

Elsie's blue eyes assumed a deeper shade. Men might like that kind of thing, but she felt that her face and neck would be poppy red in another moment. Thus far she had not addressed a word to Courtney, though by his manner he had included her in the conversation. She now resolved to break in on the attack which Isabel was beginning with the address of a skilled campaigner. And she, too, could use her eyes to advantage when she chose.

"What a curious library you have, Captain Courtney," she said, looking not at him, but at a row of books fitting closely into a small case over the writing table—"Shakespeare, the Pilgrim's Progress, Montaigne's essays, Herbert Spencer, Goethe's Life, by Lewes; Marcus Aurelius, Marston, Wordsworth, 'The Egoist,' Thackeray, Hazlitt and 'Gilford's Tales of Old Japan.' Where have I heard or read of that particular galaxy of stars before?"

"Go on. You are on the right track," cried Courtney, setting down the teacup and hastening to Elsie's side. She was leaning on the table, reading the titles of the books. The motive of her exclamation was merged now in the fire of the book lover. She had an unconscious trick of placing the forefinger of her right hand on her lips when deeply engaged in thought. Elegant as Isabel Barling might be in her studied poses, Elsie need fear no comparison as she examined the contents of the bookcase with eager attention.

"We have actually hit upon a book that should prove inexpressible," continued Courtney. "Believe me, Miss Maxwell, that is my pet subject. More than once, reading a listener, I have even lectured my long suffering father, Joey, on the point."

Isabel laughed softly. The two, standing in front of the bookcase, started apart with a sudden consciousness that they were speaking unguardedly, for Isabel's mirth had mockery in it—"there was a laughing devil in her sneer."

"By the way, where is Joey?" she asked.

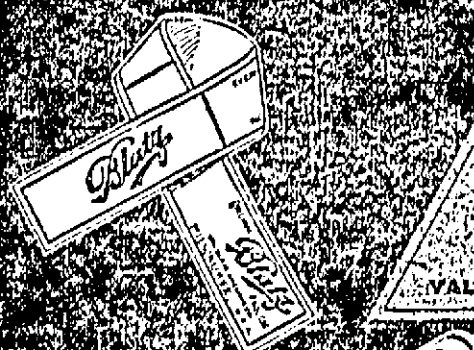

The dog answered her question by appearing, with a stretch and a yawn, from beneath a bunk. He had heard his name in Courtney's voice. That sufficed for Joey at any time.

BLATZ BEER

MILWAUKEE

You can tell a Blatz Bottle a block away!

VAL BLATZ BREWING CO.

In preparing good beer for the market, much is due to the treatment during the process—the cooling, sterilizing, aging and so on. There is a result, however, attained in the brewing of Blatz Beer—a distinguishing characteristic—that has been uniformly maintained.

Certainly the best of components are used, but it's to the "brewer's knack" that Blatz Beer owes its character—and that's where Blatz bases its claim for supremacy.

There's the delightful satisfaction of honest hops and barley malt and that individual goodness that "touches the spot."

If you are "keen to" beer quality and would enjoy its benefits, cultivate the "Blatz Sign Habit"—watch for the name—ask for any of these brands, whether on draught or bottled—Wiener, Private Stock, Export, Muenchener.

Janesville Gazette, April 6, 1868.—Examination Concluded.—The examination of George Harrell for the murder of his brother was concluded this afternoon, and he was committed to jail until the next term of court.

The impeachment court has adjourned until Thursday and the House of Representatives until Wednesday.

The progress of impeachment is regarded by the friends of the measure as highly encouraging. It is thought that the trial may close the present week.

St. Louis, Apr. 6.—The following dispatches were received here from Omaha on the 5th. The Indian peace commission reached North Platte, and several of their chiefs accompanied the commissioners to Lawrence, Nebraska, where they will remain until the commission is disbanded.

St. Louis, Apr. 6.—A messenger just in from the head of the Little Powder river where Red Cloud and the men who were afraid of the horses were encamped. They sent word that they desired to meet the commission, particularly Harry and Samson, at Lawrence, the latter part of April.

Washington, Apr. 4.—The Managers closed their case before the Senate at four o'clock today. The proceedings were interesting throughout. The examination of L. L. Wallbridge of St. Louis attracted close attention. He produced a copy of the Missouri Democrat, which contained a full report of President Johnson's famous speech, with all the inaccuracies of grammar and pronunciation, and all the principal errors of the crowd. Mr. Wallbridge swore that he had taken every word that the President uttered, that he had three times compared the speech as printed and was ready to swear that the printed copy was accurate. There was no evading such evidence, and the defense were obliged to admit the truth of the most outrageous and indecent speech of all charged upon the President.

The counsel for the defense were, on their own motion, allowed till Thursday to arrange their evidence. This was granted by a decided vote, and was not considered as in any sense an attempt to delay proceedings, but only what was due to the counsel. The counsel for the defense gave notice that they should introduce very little oral testimony, and the opinion is quite general tonight that the trial will close a week from Saturday next, or early the week after.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES.

EFFIE SHANNON, WHO APPEARS WITH HERBERT KELCEY IN "THE WALLS OF JERICHO" AT MYERS THEATRE TUESDAY

The following are but a few of the many smart motto sayings culled from "The Walls of Jericho." Alfred Sutor, the author of this wonderfully successful society drama, has likewise furnished many bright and witty epigrams which are likely to live for some time to come.

In one scene of "The Walls of Jericho" where Harry Dallas thrusts his attentions upon Lady Alethea, Frohisher, Lady Alethea says to him, "You remind me at times of the top of a haystack in the Paris Exposition." Dallas, "Why?" Lady Alethea, "Because your head is in your own hands, you dance so well and think so badly."

Lady Lucy Deverham takes occasion to remark, "I am fond of the opera; one can have such lovely talks in the boxes."

Then again, while a number of the ladies are engaged at bridge whilst Miss Mornington, among the gossip, remarks of a friend, "She has not a word of a Spaniard now, very rich, and who thinks she is all real." Lady Lucy replies, "How foolish men are."

Jack Frohisher, the hero of the play, in an animated argument with his wife, Lady Alethea, incidentally says, "I have a certain sense of honor." Lady Alethea, "Have it unimpaired, do. It is worse than appendicitis."

The great scene in "The Walls of Jericho," however, is in the third act where Frohisher delivers himself of a perfect tirade against the infidelities and vice of society, and in declaring his intentions to return to Australia so as to get out of the distasteful atmosphere in which the marriage to a peer's daughter has forced him. "You and your friends forget for what purpose God made you and try to make empty dolls. I have had enough of these companions of yours, these wretched, sexless women who do nothing but flirt and gamble, these childless wives who grudge the time it costs to bring a baby into the world."

Kelcey and Shannon will present "The Walls of Jericho" at the Myers theatre Tuesday evening, April 7th. This will be one of the dramatic treats of the season.

Rest the Stomach

Nature alone can cure Dyspepsia. But you must aid it by giving the stomach help. Let Kodol, for a little time, do all the digestive work. You will be astonished to see how quickly the stomach recovers.

There is no such thing as a cure for dyspepsia. We might as well talk about a cure for lameness.

Nature must do the curing. And Nature will do it when given the chance.

Tonics and stimulants may seem to help for a time. But their effect comes only from spurring the stomach to action. And weakness cannot be cured with a spur.

One must relieve the stomach. Let Kodol do, for a little time, what the stomach fails to do.

Help it as you help a lame ankle. Rest it, as you rest other organs that need to recuperate. And stop the irritation of hard, undigested food.

You will be surprised to note how quickly the stomach can regain its strength.

All modern treatments for indigestion aim at this relief. But they aim in different ways. Some advise dieting. That brings partial relief by omitting some elements which the stomach can't digest.

But the omitted foods are important. The body requires many food elements. When you cut some of them out, you are robbing some part.

How can Nature restore digestive strength if you deprive it of nourishment?

Another common way is to take pepsin, or digesters which depend almost solely on pepsin. That helps a little, for pepsin digests albumen. But only part of your food is albumen. Pepsin can't digest starch; it can't digest fat. What will become of them?

It is essential to have a digester which completely digests all food. That is Kodol. There is nothing else which contains all the needed elements.

A perfect digester can be put up only in liquid form. That is why Kodol is liquid. And, because it is liquid, like the digestive juices, its action is almost instant.

This is very easily proved. Take Kodol after the meal, and note the absence of pain, of fermentation, of gas. It is evident that the food is digesting.

Or mix Kodol with food in a test tube, under proper conditions, and one can see it digest. Not part of the food, as with pepsin, but all of it.

You can find no other digester which will meet such a test, for there is none.

Will you use a digester that goes but half way? Or will you give to the stomach that complete relief which comes only from the use of Kodol?

Our Guarantee

You may prove, without the risk of a penny, what Kodol can do. Buy one large bottle, and ask your druggist for the signed guarantee. If the results are not satisfactory, take the empty bottle back and your druggist will return your money.

This offer is made on the large bottle only, and to but one in a family. That will amply prove how much Kodol means to you. Then please tell your friends who need this help how easy it is to obtain it.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle.

"Light" Returns Are Heavy

A seeming paradox, but an actual truth. When we say light we mean ELECTRIC LIGHT. Electric Light is a good investment for any energetic business man intent on increasing his trade. Light attracts, and the brilliantly illuminated store, other things being equal, will get the business.

Astute merchants, realizing this truth, become lavish users of Electric Light, and then watch their sales increase.

Let us explain how cheaply we can illuminate your store.
